

Low Level Access with a Difference

The new low level access unit Deltadeck from Turner Access has been warmly welcomed within a wide scope of industries - from aviation to off-shore engineering, local authorities and leaders in the Hire Industry.

Safe, versatile and adaptable to many applications, the Deltadeck is one complete unit, easily transported and assembled within minutes. With a safe working load of 200kg, five working heights and fully guard-railed at all working levels, the Deltadeck is the ideal solution for any low level access requirements at 3m and below.

In an industry where safe working practice is crucial, guardrails are required on any place of work at height from where a person could be injured or killed from a fall; Turner Access proves again their commitment towards delivering safer equipment and systems of work.
